AmaWaterways' menus balance mouthwatering regional dishes and time-honored gastronomic favorites served with fine local wines, so you can enjoy Austrian Gröner Weiblerer with Wiener schnitzel as you cruise the Danube and drink full-bodied reds with heavy pot-au-feu while visiting Bordeaux, France.

What inspires you as a winemaker? The next vintage, applying the lessons of past vintages, and using that knowledge to try and make better wine.

What are you most excited about with respect to your upcoming releases? The 2019 reds are fantastic and we will be releasing them over the next several months. We also have some new varietals from 2018 that we are excited to release—Malbec, Chardonnay, Cabernet Franc, and a Pinot Noir—in addition to our usual platform of varietal releases every year.

What's a trend that you think will shape the future of your brand? I absolutely love organic farming and continue to grow and be embraced by fellow winemakers. We are practicing it over the last 10 years and I think it's some more neighbors embrace this way of farming. We also are not making a small amount of natural, organic wine under our WILDWOOD label, available only at our tasting room or on our website. We are actually excited about those wines and see it as a trend moving forward.

What's a trend that you think will shape the future of your brand? The move toward carbonic fermentation wines of Colchagua, which does not seem to fall into the "wine brand" category (and will continue to do so), but will be following on us. We are going to continue to make that and what we probably can from what I believe to be a truly remarkable one.

What inspires you as a winemaker? I am inspired by the dynamic growing conditions and unique microclimate in Santa Barbara County. From a grape variety perspective, I'm inspired because it can thrive across the entire area like the Los Olivos District to the coolest in the top of the hills.

What are you most excited about with respect to your upcoming releases? I am extremely proud of our latest wine release, the 2018 Pinot Noir, and a new Pinot Noir we are excited to release in the 2019 Estate Series. It's an intriguing wine, showing incredible nuance while having great structure and balance.

FALL FAVORITES

J. Wilkes Celebrates Autumn with Seasonal Standouts

As temperatures drop and the days grow shorter, rich full-bodied wines find their moment to shine. And acclaimed Santa Maria Valley vintner J. Wilkes is currently offering several cool-weather wines that pair perfectly with fall.

The 2018 Cabernet Sauvignon is a deliciously bold red. Black currant dominates the bouquet, followed by scents of toffee and cocoa. Tastes of cherry and chocolate combine with echoes of toasty oak and cedar to make this wine an instant fall classic.

A collaboration between J. Wilkes and Buffalo Trace, the 2017 Bourbon Barrel Aged Cabernet Sauvignon leans into autumn with fragrances of ripe cassis and tobacco leaf leading to notes of berry fruit on the finish. “The wine is rich and dense and definitely shows some bourbon character,” explains Consulting Winemaker and Brand Ambassador Wes Hagen, “not too pronounced but beautifully balanced.”

Fruity and floral with a hint of granite minerality, the 2018 Viognier is a full-bodied white well-suited to the season. The wine provides aromas of lime blossom and Earl Grey tea alongside stone fruit flavors that linger on the palate. “The Viognier wears its sensuality on its sleeve,” says Hagen, “and is perfect for the porch when fall cools our weather.”

For an opportunity to sample J. Wilkes’ stellar lineup of fall-friendly wines in a safe and beautiful environment, be sure to visit their tasting room located in downtown Santa Barbara. Open daily from 12 p.m. to 7 p.m., the J. Wilkes tasting room features comfortably distanced seating on a heated extended patio, ambient music, as well as a culinary menu full of pairable items including charcuterie boards, gourmet paninis, and fine chocolate.

a family affair

Originally founded in 2001 by Jeff Wilkes, the Miller family has carried on Wilkes’ legacy producing nuanced pinot noir, pinot blanc, and chardonnay from the Santa Maria Valley AVA and the Paso Robles Highlands under the J. Wilkes label. J. Wilkes wines are rich in history and flavor, representing the pure characteristics of the region.

EVERY KITCHEN HAS A STORY

Update in Summerland

A kitchen remodel adds space, brings modern European flair—and fits the budget.

After 26 years of living in a house they love, Summerland residents Muffy and Randy realized that their kitchen “was looking a little faded; it needed an upgrade.” But the couple hesitated, knowing what a kitchen remodel can cost.

Then they saw an advertisement for the new kitchen-design division at Reed Interiors in Carpinteria. Visiting the showroom, they were received warmly and treated to a personalized take on the Reed vision, with its emphasis on clean, modern lines reflecting the exciting European trend of adding contemporary design and functionality to the interiors of historic buildings.

An hour later, they had decided to partner with Reed kitchen designer Michel Clair, who had recently arrived in the U.S. after 25 years of designing in France, to make their remodel a reality.

“It was the right decision,” says Muffy some months later. “We love the kitchen.”

The job requirements were clear: They didn’t want to move the plumbing and electrical wiring and they wanted more storage space, but in the same floor plan. They also did not want to have to replace all of their appliances.

Switching out the cabinets and countertops, therefore, became the biggest part of the project. Adding new plumbing fixtures, lighting and up-to-the-minute cabinet hardware brought it all together.

Reed, of course, brought to the project much more than just cabinets, countertops, fixtures and hardware; they brought Clair and his deep understanding of how to employ materials, textures and colors to create the transcendent kitchen you see here. The renewed heart of this home is now visually balanced, with fluid, modern lines, more cabinet and countertop space, enhanced lighting and improved ergonomics—all signatures of Reed kitchen design.

Muffy and Randy got everything they wanted from the project and something more, says Muffy: “They work hard, and they’re lovely people. We feel like we made some new friends.”

DESIGN DETAILS:

Pale-gray wood-grain resin cabinets were installed above and below the new mottled-gray resin countertop that runs along three sides of the kitchen. The island—expanded slightly and given new white lacquer cabinets and a black granite work surface—now stands as a contrasting, yet complementary, element in the center of the room. Long, slotted brushed-steel pulls—aligned horizontally on drawers and vertically on cabinets—are a unifying element, and a new hardwood floor warms the way only wood can.

The stainless-steel refrigerator and dual oven are now flush with the cabinets, and the homeowners, Muffy and Randy, splurged on a sleek black rectangular wafer that is their super-energy-efficient induction stove top.

Reed also added Muffy's favorite touch—recessed LED lights that turn on automatically when a cabinet door is opened, illuminating the interior, plus touch-activated LEDs on the bottom of the cabinets to light the countertop.

A NEW LOOK FOR mediterraneo

As the Westlake Village Inn's flagship restaurant prepares to reopen in the coming weeks after a dramatic makeover, the team weighs in about what excites them the most at the newly reimagined venue.

LISA BIONDI Executive Chef

I'm most excited about the kitchen redesign that features a Waldorf cooking suite, which allows for better communication between the chefs and the cooks with no barriers. My team and I will be introducing more Mediterranean-influenced foods, with flavorful vegetables taking center stage. In addition, the star items include simple savory grilled fish, luscious prime meats, and, of course, our mouthwatering house-made pastas. We will also be introducing new desserts including a few vegan options that are sure to be loved by all.

BILL HAIG General Manager

I look forward to introducing guests to a new concept restaurant that exudes a high-end experience and encompasses interactive service and personalized touches to make you feel at home. While we have been closed, we have been preparing the best culinary and service team that will provide superior, unmatched service and showcase a wow factor at every corner.

CHRIS CUILTY COO/CFO

Our latest redesign takes on a Mediterranean feel and is the most recent example of our commitment to raising the bar at the property for the benefit of our hotel guests and locals. The new look radiates the vibe of an open-air villa in the Mediterranean. Guest should be prepared to enjoy a very fresh and upscale environment that will surely make them want to stay awhile. No passport needed to travel here.

MARIA SOLORZANO Director of Sales and Marketing

Watching the development of the property grow has been an amazing experience. We are constantly reaching for the next level in service and enhancing the guests' experience. The renovation of Mediterraneo will add to the upscale touch that the Westlake Village Inn has become known for with our community and guests. I am personally eager to watch Mediterraneo go viral and cover everyone's Instagram feed as it becomes the new local Instagram-worthy hot spot: #MediterraneoWL.

ROBERTO MERIDA, MIGUEL WILSON, CAMREN DORTHALINA Alcohol Architects

Our new bar is sleek, polished, and will be the hub of the restaurant. With over 30 feet of space, we have plenty of room to interact with our guests and create made-to-order innovative craft cocktails. We are so excited for everyone to taste our carefully curated fruit-based cocktails, paired perfectly with our happy hour bites. In addition, our wine list has been carefully selected and is made up of more than 50 incredible wines that we look forward to seeing on the Wine Spectator list.

A Magical Place Evolves

It's an iconic landmark 50 years in the making: But rather than stand frozen in time, the Westlake Village Inn is gracefully evolving within its spectacular natural surroundings. This year brings multimillion-dollar updates and renovations to the property to ensure that the Inn always goes above and beyond for guests. In the coming months, exciting changes are being unveiled at what is now an innovative boutique hotel that both visitors and locals can call home.

BOGIES BAR

The bar's newly redesigned Vista Terrace is destined to be the go-to spot for the community this spring and summer. The outdoor space is worthy of Instagram posts and Pinterest dream boards, so don't forget to tag it! From the lakeside alfresco dining experience to the private outdoor cabanas with lakeside views, Bogies introduces a distinctive menu of craft cocktails and delectable bites. It's a great meeting place to catch up with friends by the fire pits. Inside, intimate seating and a lively dance floor awaits, plus live entertainment fills the bill almost every evening.

MED

Opening this month, Mediterraneo boasts a redesign that makes it one of the Westlake Village Inn's most exciting projects to date. The restaurant exudes the ambiance of an open-air Mediterranean villa. Guests can start off at the expansive new bar with an inventive handcrafted cocktail, like the Blood Orange Old-Fashioned, then settle in at a table to peruse a new menu inspired by the cuisine of the Mediterranean coast. The high-end concept restaurant will offer personal touches and details at every turn.

SPA RELAIS

In the months to come, this exclusive spa, nestled between the golf course and the lake, will embrace sophisticated elements of Tuscan style. The main building will house 13 customized spa treatment rooms, two private entrance couple suites, a fitness center, a Vichy treatment room, 16 luxurious overnight guest rooms, and a secluded lap pool within lush fragrant gardens. The beautiful, boutique-style retreat will offer Vinotherapie treatments utilizing the anti-aging and antioxidant properties of grapes, grown on the property's vineyard. Spa Relais will be a place to rejuvenate and escape from the world.

WINEMAKER WISDOM

NEETA & KUNAL MITTAL
LXV Wine
 Paso Robles

What inspires you as a winemaker? The vulnerability of a vintage. Vintages capture the essence of the year gone by. As a small-lot production winery we can showcase the vintage in all its glory with our single-vineyard “Meso” series, and accentuate the varying facets of the vintage in our blends.

What are you most excited about with respect to your upcoming releases? The “Meso” series of wines where we capture the best vintage from the best site. The series will feature a particular vineyard once every few years in the most desirable vintage. The Fall 2021 release will be 2019 Cabernet Sauvignon from Gateway Vineyard. 2019 was a long and equitable growing season highlighted in the terroir, and fruit, of the Bordeaux-esque Gateway vineyard in Willow Creek AVA.

What’s a trend that you think will shape the future of your brand? Virtual tastings that are as intimate and experiential as in a tasting room. We immerse someone in, say New York, in the experience of the Paso Robles terroir, LXV wines, and the flavor pairings, by making the “tasting box” tactile and sensory.

JAMES SCHREINER
Opolo Vineyards

What inspires you as a winemaker? I’m always inspired by the whole process, from sustainable vineyard management practices to the cellar and all the way to the bottle. Our team commits themselves to creating a wide range of quality wines that support Opolo’s mission to provide a fun and all-inclusive tasting experience.

What are you most excited about with respect to your upcoming releases? We are set to release Opolo’s first white blend, Willow Blanc. This wine is a unique blend of skin-contact Viognier and Roussanne. We aged our Willow Blanc for 16 months in a combination of new Acacia, new French, and stainless barrels. The result is a very complex and flavorful white wine that we hope everyone will enjoy.

What’s a trend that you think will shape the future of your brand? We’ve had great success bringing our tasting room to homes via virtual tasting. While we always encourage people to experience our property in person, virtual tastings have provided a way to connect with people across the world to give them that Opolo hospitality wherever they live.

SASHI MOORMAN
Piedrasassi Wine & Bread
 Lompoc
 piedrasassi.com

What inspires you as a winemaker? Bringing greater awareness to the extraordinary wines that come from California and Oregon, specifically the Sta. Rita Hills and Eola-Amity Hills. Being part of a global community of wine lovers is often where I find the greatest satisfaction.

What are you most excited about with respect to your upcoming releases? We will have the 2019 release of Piedrasassi wines this fall which is a truly special vintage. On top of that, some amazing releases from our other wineries (Sandhi, Evening Land Vineyards, and Domaine de la Côte) and also some website redesigns and upgrades that are really going to change the way that people interact with all of our brands collectively.

What’s a trend that you think will shape the future of your brand? The consumer has more influence now than ever before. I think our customers will begin to look beyond just organic practices, and ask for our industry’s participation in reversing global warming. The impact of climate change has had a profound effect on the wine industry—you can literally taste how climate change has changed our definition of cool climatic regions across the globe.

From top: In the heart of Paso’s Willow Creek flourishes the Armaa.N vineyard, with ten thousand vines seeking the sun. Opolo creates unique single varietals as well as award-winning blends from fruit grown on the estate vineyards. Winemaker Sashi Moorman of Piedrasassi Wine & Bread strives to coax from each harvest its individual expression of place.
